

INVITATION

RISK ASSESSMENTS AND COSHH

5TH NOVEMBER – NORTHALLERTON £35 + VAT including lunch

10am to 3pm

(70% Funded though LandSkills)

A full day of how prepare your Risk Assessments and looking into COSHH and how it affects the individuals & business. You will not only learn how to complete your Risk Assessments but there will also be a practical session around a place of work associated with those attending, highlighting the risks and ensuring all understand what to do in various situations around the business.

Using chemicals or other hazardous substances at work can put people's health at risk, causing diseases including asthma, dermatitis or cancer.

The COSHH regulations require employers to control substances that can harm workers' health, come and find out what the obligations are and what you can do about it.....

Substances hazardous to health in agriculture include:

- dusts from plants, animals, composted and fermented materials;
- regulated products – pesticides, medicines, feed additives;
- products used in silage making (and off-gases);
- fertilisers and soil improvers;
- paints, oils, lubricants, brake fluids, detergents;
- diseases from animals, eg leptospirosis, cryptosporidium;
- confined spaces and toxic gases, eg hydrogen sulphide;
- vehicle exhaust fumes.
